

VIVID FUSION

Edgar Degas

The Little Dancer, Fourteen Years
Modelled in 1880, the year 1881 being given to the artist with the model's name.

The Little Dancer is a bronze sculpture of a young girl, the daughter of the artist's friend, standing in a pink tutu. It was modelled in 1880, the year 1881 being given to the artist with the model's name. The sculpture is a masterpiece of Degas's work, showing his interest in the world of ballet and his ability to capture a moment of time in a permanent form.
